Citizens of Troy:

My sincere congratulations to the City of Troy on the opening of your public library.

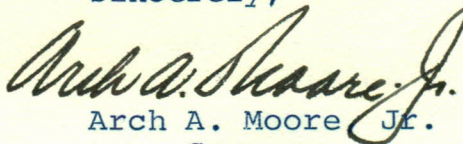

A library is among the richest of gifts a community can give its citizens. Pleasant hours of entertainment, adventure and education are only part of the opportunity a library may offer.

Each man's lifetime seems to him the only "real" part of history. Reading of our forefathers and their work to provide a world and new worlds to make our lives better, brings the past to "life". It teaches us that our modern world did not just happen. Hard work and dreams brought man from the stone age and the other side of earth to the space age and the moon. All of the people and events between the cave man and the astronauts can be found in your new library.

Whether you are looking for career ideas, reading about cultures of the world or your city's history, your library offers untold advantages from improving your conversation or schoolwork to bringing understanding and peace to the world.

There is no better time than your youth to develop the habit of using your library. With the fine new facility in Troy, using your library should be especially enjoyable.

Sincerely,

Arch A. Moore, Jr.
Governor
