

EDGAR D. WHITCOMB
GOVERNOR

STATE OF INDIANA
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
INDIANAPOLIS

April fifth 1971

The Young People's Library
City of Troy
500 West Big Beaver Road
Troy, Michigan

Dear Friends:

The quest for knowledge, through reading and understanding, is one of the most important phases of our American heritage.

Whether fact or fiction, the world of books can be both fascinating and beneficial in offering not only a pleasant pastime, but more important, a program for broadening and improving the mind.

Never in our nation's history, have young people been as well educated, as well read, and as interested and involved in the adult world as the young people of today. Their desire for even further knowledge is evidenced by their participation in just such programs as the City of Troy Library is offering.

I congratulate the backers and sponsors of this new library and wish you continuing success in your many projects offered to the young people of your area.

Sincerely,

Edgar D. Whitcomb

Edgar D. Whitcomb
GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF INDIANA

EDW/dm