Dear Mrs. Hart:

There are few thrills to match that of a parent who learns to see again through the eyes of a child.

An example is a child's discovery of the excitement and friendship that lie between the pages of a book. Here is the whole world--its villains and heroes and discoverers--waiting to talk with the child and to open all the doors of the world to him. Here are George, The Curious Monkey, the Wizard of Oz, Magellan, Columbus, Edison and Lindbergh, all waiting to find a new friend.

My congratulations to you and the citizens of Troy for making this great opportunity available to all your people, young or old.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "Richard B. Ogilvie". The signature is stylized and written in a cursive-like font.

Richard B. Ogilvie
Governor
